

Michael E. Kunz

Born: February, 1943

Clerk of Court: 1979-2016

Education:

St. Joseph's University, B.S., 1970

St. Joseph's University, M.B.A., 1980

Mr. Kunz joined the Clerk's office in 1962, serving as both Chief Deputy Clerk and Deputy Clerk before becoming the Clerk of Court in 1979. He served in the Clerk's office for a total of fifty-four years. He served as the Clerk of Court from 1979 until his retirement in 2016, a period of thirty-seven years.

At the time of his retirement, he was then the longest serving Clerk of Court in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania and the entire Federal Court system.

Mr. Kunz served under nine Chief Judges and oversaw projects such as building of the courthouse at Sixth & Market, the facilitation of secure access for prisoners from the Federal Detention Center, and the implementation of electronic filing. Additionally, during his tenure, the Eastern District rose to the challenge of handling many important cases transferred through the Multi-District Litigation Panel.

At the time of his retirement, Mr. Kunz had served during the tenure of every Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts (with the exception of the AO's first Director, Henry Chandler) and served during the tenure of every Director of the Federal Judicial Center.

Mr. Kunz's contributions to the cause of justice included appointments by United States Supreme Court Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist to national advisory committees on equal opportunity, alternative dispute resolution, and the history of the Federal Judiciary.

A compilation of cases managed by the Clerk's Office during his tenure with the court would include the following milestones: 1960s – the Electrical Equipment Antitrust Cases; developing case processing procedures under the directive of the Committee on Complex Litigation, appointed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, which was a predecessor to the Judicial Panel on Multi-District Litigation; 1970s – asbestos MDL litigation; 1990s – managing 60 MDL cases, with nearly 250,000 filings; and, the 2000s – managing the multi-defendant criminal drug cases.

He managed to keep all employees under his supervision employed in the aftermath of the Gramm-Rudman Hollings Act of 1985 which called for automatic spending cuts if federal spending limits were exceeded, and also during more recent federal budget sequestrations during which hundreds of court employees in other districts were furloughed or terminated.

Mr. Kunz was also instrumental in forming the Historical Society of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, which traces the history of the Court as one of the first thirteen federal courts formed in 1789. The Historical Society reminds the Pennsylvania bar and community at large of the extraordinary precedential history and tradition of the Court.

Following his retirement, he was honored at the 32nd Annual Meeting and Dinner of the Historical Society for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania held on September 27, 2016. A copy of the program booklet for the meeting and dinner is available below, which references his accomplishments and service to the Court in greater detail.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY
UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA

The Historical Society of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania was created as a non-profit organization designed to heighten public awareness of the court's history by highlighting for the interested public the court's many contributions to American history. Toward this lofty end, the Society will endeavor to provide an opportunity for scholarly research into court documents and records; to publish articles and books and present educational exhibits on court history to the public; and to acquire, preserve, and maintain all artifacts of historical significance to the court, including documents, records, photographs, portraits, and other historical objects and memorabilia.

The Historical Society holds a special place in the hearts and minds of the judges and staff of the Eastern District court as it acts as a living bridge between the court's illustrious past and the large metropolitan court it has become at the dawn of a new millennium. The Society has sponsored a number of highly informative symposiums, on areas as modern as today's headlines, such as the proposed Constitutional amendment to ban flag burning, the charitable efforts of our judges, the history of the U.S. Magistrate Judgeship program, and the legal and ethical implications of the Central Intelligence Agency Cold War experiments on human subjects. The Society has also sponsored symposiums on persons of import in the court's growth, from Eighteenth and Nineteenth Century judges and lawyers, to the Honorable James P. McGranery, a judge of this court who later served as United States Attorney General at a crucial juncture in this Nation's history, and the late Patrick T. Ryan, a distinguished Philadelphia litigator and one of the founders of the Society. The Society has saluted distinguished patriots such as William Penn, Albert Maris, William Brennan, and Francis Hopkinson, the first judge of this court and the designer of the American flag and seal of the United States. The Society has also focused on areas such as patent law, admiralty law, the Bill of Rights, criminal law in this court, and bankruptcy. Perhaps the most moving symposium was convened in 1995, when judges of this court celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the end of World War II by sharing their recollections of military service.

The Society also provides an invaluable opportunity for the judicial officers and members of the bar and public to get to know each other on a more personal level. In the spring, the Society gathers socially to enjoy the friendship of those who share their interests in court history with the Society's Annual Meeting and Dinner. The Society's Calendar Committee is responsible for the court's annual calendar, which is an informative source of court history and a beautiful, artistic example of the Society at its best. The Society also has dedicated numerous portraits to the court of notable judges; the Society has played a role in the commissioning of portraits of Judges Donald W. VanArtsdalen, Joseph L. McGlynn, Jr., A. Leon Higginbotham, Jr., Thomas A. Masterson, Jay C. Waldman, E. Mac Troutman, James McGirr Kelly, James T. Giles, Raymond J. Broderick, J. William Ditter, Jr., John B. Hannum, Judge Thomas N. O'Neill, Jr., Clifford Scott Green, William Lewis, Jan E. DuBois, John R. Padova, Louis H. Pollak, the late Norma L. Shapiro, Lowell A. Reed, Jr., the late John W. Lord, Jr., Harvey Bartle III, Ronald L. Buckwalter, John P. Fullam, Berle M. Schiller, Petrese B. Tucker, Chief Judge, Edmund V. Ludwig, William H. Yohn, Jr., Michael M. Baylson, Anita B. Brody, and Stewart Dalzell; the Society is presently in the process of commissioning portraits of Judges J. Curtis Joyner and Eduardo C. Robreno, as well as the late Honorable John Cadwalader and the late Honorable Archibald Randall.

The Society was formally incorporated on April 12, 1984, in commemoration of the 194th anniversary of the court's earliest recorded attorney admission ceremony, held in 1790 in the State House in Philadelphia - now known as Independence Hall - where the court originally sat. Its active membership is open to everyone who wishes to foster an informed understanding of the court's role in American History.

GUEST OF HONOR
MICHAEL E. KUNZ

Since the appointment in 1789 of Irish-born Samuel Caldwell as the first Clerk of Court for the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, there have been just 15 Clerks of Court appointed to manage the Court's administrative agenda in the 227 years of its existence. Now, Michael E. Kunz, the Clerk who has served the longest tenure of any of his predecessors has announced his retirement, effective July 1, 2016.

Mr. Kunz was appointed as a deputy clerk by Clerk of Court W. Halton Spann on February 1, 1962, following his graduation from Father Judge High School in Philadelphia. He served as Chief Deputy Clerk from 1975 to 1979, as acting Clerk of Court from April of 1976 through May of 1979, and as Clerk of Court in his own right when he was officially appointed to his post on May 1, 1979. He served as Clerk of Court during the tenures of four United States Chief Justices: Earl Warren, Warren E. Burger, William H. Rehnquist and John G. Roberts, Jr. He has served as Clerk of Court with nine Chief Judges of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, not including two Chief Judges during whose tenures he served before he was named as Clerk of Court. He has served during the tenure of every Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts (with the exception of the AO's first Director, Henry Chandler) and has served during the tenure of every Director of the Federal Judicial Center. He has worked with all but 16 of the 102 men and women who have served as Article III judges in the Eastern District since the court's creation in 1789. He has read the Presidential Commission of 56 judges, 9 United States Attorneys, and 10 United States Marshals during their induction ceremonies.

MICHAEL E. KUNZ

Mr. Kunz remains most proud of the fact that he managed to keep all employees under his supervision employed in the aftermath of the Gramm-Rudman Hollings Act of 1985 which called for automatic spending cuts if federal spending limits were exceeded, and also during more recent federal budget sequestrations during which hundreds of court employees in other districts were furloughed or terminated. He retires as one of the longest serving federal court clerks in history and certainly the clerk who has had the most impact on the management of any federal court's administrative agenda.

With the Court now well into its third century of existence under the Judiciary Act of 1789, its administrative infrastructure has grown along with its caseload. When Mr. Kunz was appointed as Clerk in 1979, there were 20 Article III judges, four magistrate judges and 50 employees working at the Clerk's Office. There are now 34 judges, 12 magistrate judges and over 200 employees. Also adding to the administrative portfolio of federal clerks, in addition to an expanded federal caseload, has been the decentralization of administrative duties and responsibilities from the Administrative Office of the United States Courts to the nation's district court clerks.

In the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, Mr. Kunz's responsibilities and accomplishments during his long tenure reflect the growing impact of the Clerk's Office on the day-to-day operations of the court, particularly in the area of information technology and automation. In point of fact, Mr. Kunz helped to pioneer 17 of the 26 nationally supported automation systems in the federal judiciary guiding the court into the age of automation. During his tenure, the Court saw the widespread and truly revolutionary introduction of electronic capabilities in network access, including advances in the electronic docketing of civil and criminal cases; the introduction of electronic case filing; electronic fiscal management; and, the introduction of the electronic courtroom.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

MICHAEL E. KUNZ

Under Mr. Kunz's supervision, the first three electronic courtrooms were introduced in the fall of 2001 and additional courtrooms were brought online in 2002, 2003 and 2004. Currently, twenty-two courtrooms have full electronic capabilities. Each includes technology designed to effectively manage and present evidence and testimony and support real-time court reporting. Components of the electronic courtrooms include Digital Evidence Presentation Systems (DEPS); Integrated Document Camera Systems; Integrated Video Conferencing Systems; VCRs and infrastructure enhancements that support multiple serial connections; and, flat panel monitors with annotation capabilities placed throughout the courtroom for the benefit of the judge and jury, counsel and litigants, court staff and members of the public.

Electronic sound recording has experienced dramatic and rapid growth since the Judicial Conference sanctioned its use in the federal courts, owing to its efficiency and cost-effectiveness. In the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, the electronic sound recording program has had a substantial impact on court reporting costs. The combined court reporting program of official court reporters and ESR operators enables the EDPA to meet the needs of all judicial officers at one time, precluding the need to contract court reporters. This system was installed in all of the courtrooms during May 1993.

Also, in 2003, all forty-five courtrooms in the Eastern District were equipped with FTRGold digital audio recording. Digital audio technology offers several potential benefits not available with analog systems including, enhanced sound quality, immediate and remote access, simultaneous playback and recording, quick search and replay of particular segments of the record and savings in storage space.

An accurate account of the official court record is absolutely essential for legal equality, especially in the appellate process, and for guaranteeing the constitutional right to due process. Over the course of the last half-century, state and federal courts have implemented technological innovations to refine the preparation of transcripts and other court records, all with the intent of furthering the courts' constitutional mission. One of these technologies is Digital Audio Court Recording (DCR).

DCR is a method of making an electronic audio recording of a court proceeding.¹ In 1999, the Judicial Conference of the United States authorized the use of DCR for the creation of an official record of a court proceeding (upon approval by the presiding judicial officer in that specific court proceeding). DCR is used in district and bankruptcy courts throughout the federal judicial system. The Eastern District of Pennsylvania (EDPa) has installed DCR technology in all of the 48 courtrooms it uses.²

During the 54 years that Michael Kunz has been privileged to serve the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, he has been highly impressed with various efforts on the part of this court, and nationwide, to ensure that all citizens have access to information involving this court and the federal court system.

² Including all EDPa courtrooms located in the Byrne Courthouse and the Nix Building in Philadelphia, and all EDPa courtrooms located in the court's so-called "Northern Tier" (Allentown, Easton, Reading and, upon construction, Lancaster).

DCR allows litigants and members of the public who may not have the economic wherewithal to order an expensive transcript, or the ability to physically travel to the courthouse, to access judicial information in a more timely, efficient and affordable manner.³

Over three decades ago, the federal courts enacted a similar program to allow for the audio recording of deposition testimony. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(b)(3)(A) provides that "(u)nless the court orders otherwise, [deposition] testimony may be recorded by audio, audiovisual or stenographic means." The intent behind the adoption of Rule 30 is "to facilitate less expensive procedures...,"⁴ The manifest purpose of this rule is to facilitate the effective participation of the economically disadvantaged in the federal courts, through the lowering of costs as a result of the use of modern technology.

For the first time, judges and support staff were provided with personal computers equipped with word processing; Internet capabilities, including automated legal research and email; and, an electronic interface to the Clerk's Office automated civil and criminal docketing system. Under Mr. Kunz's supervision, the court implemented the systems which allow electronic access to court records for attorneys and the public, as well as for judges and chambers staff. He helped introduce the ICMS Civil/Criminal docketing system and, later, helped to convert that system to CM/ECF.

Among his many accomplishments, Mr. Kunz participated on a court management committee which implemented the individual calendaring system in the District Court in the 1970s, a significant improvement in case management techniques. He helped to introduce the 8-person jury concept in civil cases. He helped introduce the third law clerk system for the Eastern District's Article III judges.

A compilation of cases managed by the Clerk's Office during his tenure with the court would include the following milestones: 1960s – the Electrical Equipment Antitrust Cases; developing case processing procedures under the directive of the Committee on Complex Litigation, appointed by Chief Justice Warren, which was a predecessor to the Judicial Panel on Multi-District Litigation; 1970s – the Penn Central and Reading Railroads bankruptcy reorganizations; 1980s – asbestos MDL litigation; 1990s – managing 60 MDL cases, with nearly 250,000 filings; and, the 2000s – managing the multi-defendant criminal drug cases.

Mr. Kunz spent many years of his career overseeing the court's involvement in an unprecedented expansion of its facilities in Philadelphia, Reading, Easton and Allentown, where a new United States Courthouse was constructed in 1995. The Byrne U.S. Courthouse in Philadelphia was expanded since its construction in 1975 to include dozens of new chambers and offices to house its expanded bench and hundreds of myriad renovations and improvements to its physical structure, including a major reconstruction of the courthouse's brick facade. The Nix Federal Building in Philadelphia, originally constructed as a federal courthouse and later sold to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for use as a state courthouse was reacquired during Mr. Kunz's tenure to house the relocated Eastern District's Bankruptcy Court.

Mr. Kunz has served on several national committees during his long career. In 1993, he chaired a committee which provided timely and critical program guidance and assistance to the Administrative Office in the development of automated case management systems in the district courts. He also served as a member of the Administrative Office Advisory Committee on Court Statistics and on committees charged with responsibilities for changes to the Judicial Salary Plan and the decentralization of the budget.

He was recognized by the Administrative Office for his assistance in the passage of the Judicial Amendment Act of 1994. He has received numerous awards during his career, including the Director's Award from the Administrative Office, as well as numerous commendations and awards from the court and from area bar associations. In 1989, Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist appointed him to membership in the Advisory Committee to the Board of the Federal Judicial Center concerning the development of programs relating to the history of the judicial branch of the United States. In 1984, he became a founding member of the Historical Society of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania

Mr. Kunz is a member of the Federal Court Clerks Association and the Capitol Historical Society. A graduate of St. Joseph's University in Philadelphia, where he was awarded both his Bachelors of Science in 1970 and an MBA degree in 1980, Mr. Kunz has served his alma mater as an adjunct professor in both its undergraduate and graduate programs. In sum, during his long career, Mr. Kunz has brought an unprecedented level of loyalty, energy and enthusiasm to the court which will be unmatched for some time to come.

CO- CHAIR

recently in the case of Toney v. Chester County Hosp., 36 A.3d 83 (Pa. 2011). The Toney case is one of the most important pronouncements of the boundaries of a negligent infliction of emotional distress claim under Pennsylvania Law.

From 2013 through 2015, Mr. Raynes led a pro bono Campaign against the Canadian government on behalf of the 94 living Canadian Thalidomide survivors. That Campaign garnered national attention in the Canadian press and led to a historic unanimous vote by the Canadian Parliament and the securing of a $180 million Fund for the Canadian Thalidomide survivors.
